Throughout the Newsweek interview, as mostly elsewhere, Mrs. Kennedy is "Jackie", as though they were f ieds, or he had known her well. This is not normal reference to a former first lady.

One of the more vicious assaults on Mrs. JFK is in col. 4 where he begins by saying she was increasingly interested in his work while reading it, left smiling and wept when repoeters saw her "and that's how the stories that the book made her cry got started". !! He follows thi with a pretense of kindness and evenhandedness about how brave she was wss for four days after the assassination. This is real Goebbels
